

5 Reasons to try Brow Henna Today!

Because defined, luscious brows are trending!

If your mornings are jam-packed, you're probably looking for a way to make things more efficient and streamline your morning schedule. Semi-permanent brow treatments are the answer here. They allow you to get up, slap on some moisturizer and illuminator and run out the door. So, they'll give you that "I just woke up like this" look with minimal effort.

Maximize your morning routine with brow henna!

The next big thing when it comes to brow treatments has been, for a while now, brow henna. Henna dyes are no longer a sign that you came back from a family cruise or from the local indie music festival. They have made the jump from tacky floral patterns on your skin to professional salons, as a natural, organic and efficient alternative for those who want to avoid traditional brow tinting formulas.

What goes on, also goes in!

Say NO to chemicals and toxins, say HELLO to natural and organic! It's a fact: every day, the average woman applies up to 200 chemicals (yep, a staggering two hundred!) on her skin through cosmetics, perfume, skincare items, and face care, exposing herself to a vast array of toxins and chemical compounds. The human skin is our largest organ. It's important to know that around 60 percent of chemicals we apply eventually end up in the liver. Well, that's just not good enough for us!

The Elleebana Brow Henna that I use is a naturally derived product that contains no ammonia. Moreover, the Elleebana Brow Henna does not require an oxidizing agent to penetrate the cortex and deposit color. It has a natural formula that processes with the proteins in your hair. Other dyes on the market require hydrogen peroxide to develop the color.

It's vegan and animal-friendly!

The Elleebana Brow Henna is not tested on animals and it is even classified as vegan – meaning that clients that have a holistic or natural appeal can now try brow tinting !

It can actually heal your eyebrows!

If you choose the right brand, Brow Henna can do more for you than simply tint your eyebrows. It can actually heal them, something that traditional brow dyes or microblading will never do. It contains hydrolyzed proteins, vitamin complex and antioxidants. Therefore, Elleebana's Brow Henna helps to strengthen and restore hair growth and improves the natural condition of the eyebrow.

It's fast, lasts longer and looks more natural!

Typically, a Brow Henna treatment lasts between 15-30 minutes. The results will last you between 2 and 4 weeks (depending on your skin type). Skin regenerates daily. It is always difficult to say how long a henna skin stain is going to last on a certain skin type.
